

Development Director of the MACC

The Mexican American Catholic College (MACC) in San Antonio, Texas, a leader in Hispanic Ministry since 1972, seeks an experienced Development Director to lead the Colleges mission advancement and fundraising office. MACCs mission is to educate and empower leaders for service in a culturally diverse Church and society. MACC students clergy, seminarians, deacon candidates, religious, and laity can further their education for ministry in their native language (Spanish or English), while attaining bilingual proficiency. Over 130 students are enrolled in its degree-based programs and more than 500 students register annually in the language and continuing education programs and workshops. The robust student population and innovative programs are poised to expand through online technologies and augmented partnerships with dioceses and religious communities. One of the principal academic partnerships is MACCs delivery of all the majors courses for a B.A. in Pastoral Ministry which is awarded by University of the Incarnate Word, the largest Catholic university in Texas. An effective fundraising professional can build on the current base of philanthropic support, loyal donors, and alumni, to support MACCs sustainability and future growth. Candidates must hold a B.A. and substantive experience in development donor cultivation, annual campaigns, and grants writing. The ideal candidate will also have good bilingual (Spanish/English) communication skills, experience with faith based institutions, and certification as a fundraising executive.
